Udaya Kumar Hebbar, MD & CEO of CreditAccess Grameen, said “Our foray in five new states is in line with the Company’s contiguous district based expansion strategy with strong rural focus. There is still significant scope for penetration of microfinance specifically in deep rural & unbanked areas where low-income households lack access to easy and affordable credit. Contiguous district based expansion helps us to effectively manage risk in new geographies whilst ensuring better operational productivity. We have already hired the right human capital, particularly freshers in these new states and trained them in our inhouse facilities. We continue to focus on strengthening our technology and increase robustness of our systems and processes as we grow in new markets. We believe that this will help us to build high quality loan book and deliver consistent growth over coming quarters. Our pan India presence will help us realise our mission to become a preferred business partner of one crore low-income households lacking access to credit, by the year 2025.”
